Christ-Church Opening.
A very large congregation was present last Sunday morning at the opening service in the new Christ Church edifice. The programme of services appropriate to Easter was carried out. The music was very fine and a profuse display of flowers and palms surrounded the altar. The pastor preached from the text: "Now is Christ risen from the dead," 1 Cor. 15: 1. The preacher dwelt on the general reasons for rejoicing in the great fact of the resurrection commemorated in the Easter celebration, and of the particular reason for joy and thanksgiving which the members of Christ Church felt in coming into their new and beautiful home on this Easter day. The interior of the new church was very much admired, and visitors congratulated the members of the church on their successful accomplishment. The altar, which is of white stone, occupies an elevated and conspicuous position against the rear wall of the sanctuary. The latter is very spacious, and the clergy, surpliced choir, and organist are in full view of the congregation. The acoustic properties of the church are excellent. An abundance of light is shed over the interior from the lantern tower. The whole interior is very picturesque.

A Point Well Taken.
Henry Lawrence raised a point in the discussion of the water-supply question on Tuesday night which was one of the most important things brought out in the discussion. It had been previously stated that the Glen Ridge section of the township was to be supplied from the Montclair Water Company's main. Mr. Lawrence asked if the contract provided against compelling the whole town to use the water from the Montclair pipes instead of that from the Orange Company's own wells. It was late in the evening when Mr. Lawrence propounded his query, and the matter did not receive the attention that its importance deserved.

A Night with the Sports.

Metz's Hall presented a lively scene on Monday night. What was undoubtedly the greatest array of sporting talent ever assembled at one time in this town was present on that night at the ball of the Watsessing Field Club. The sporting blood of East Orange, full-fledged gamestock from Orange, and the talent of this town were all largely represented. The great attraction for the sporting gentry was the array of semi-professional pugilistic talent engaged for the occasion, and who donned the gloves and faced each other in the ring. The intervals between the boxing bouts was devoted to dancing, which was enjoyed by young men and women of a social turn. During these intervals the sports adjourned to the bar.

The Watsessing Social Club attended the ball in a body and occupied the gallery, from which they lustily cheered the pugilists. Mr. Spielman of Newark was master of ceremonies. After a season of dancing the floor was cleared and a rope brought, with which a ring was formed. The sports rushed from the bar and formed a compact circle three or four deep around the ring. The young women, enthusiastic admirers of the manly art, stood on a bench and looked into the ring over the heads of the sports. Mr. Spielman took his position in the ring and was quickly followed by Mr. C. Kuehne and his second and Mr. Schlosser and his second. The pugilists occupied chairs in their respective corners. Mr. Spielman announced "Mr. Schlosser, ladle and gentlemen," and Mr. Schlosser arose, bowed, and was greeted by cheers. Then Mr. Spielman ordered the men to put on gloves, then to shake hands, then to go.

The order was followed by a series of agile evolutions about the ring, then bluff, bang, and the big gloves smashed up against their faces. "Oh my! that was a daisy," exclaimed the sports, and the cheering from the Watsessing Social Club in the gallery was vociferous. The dodging and biffing and banging lasted three minutes, when Mr. Spielman called time, and for an interval of a minute the seconds joined the principals with towels. This was repeated three times and then the bout was over. The rope was taken away, the sports departed for the bar, the music struck a bar or two also; the young women got down from their benches and enjoyed a dance, and the Watsessing Social Club discussed the merits of the men.

After the dance was over the ring was again formed, the sports reappeared, and Mr. Spielman announced Master McKee of the Ariel A. C. and Master Gregory of the Clipper A. C., and the Watsessing Social Club resumed its cheering. Masters McKee and Gregory are two boys about sixteen years of age, and after a rattling mill the sports adjudged them the best boxers of the evening. Other talent announced by Mr. Spielman during the course of the evening were Messrs. Tucker and Leary of Newark, whose scientific sparring aroused great enthusiasm; Mr. James Crow and Mr. Harry Conley, both of Orange; Mr. Schultz of Newark and Ray Badgley of Orange; during this bout Mr. Schultz landed heavily several times on Mr. Badgley's nose and the latter gentleman lost his temper and wanted to fight to a finish. It was some time before order was restored.

The bout between Mr. Beams and Mr. Wallace, both heavy weights, was a hard-hitting affair, and the Watsessing Social Club outdid itself in cheering. The final bout was between "Bob" Foster of this town and Fred Smith of Newark. The boxing and dancing concluded about six o'clock in the morning, and when the sun rose the Watsessing Social Club was still cheering.

Duncan Clark's Minstrels.
Duncan Clark's female minstrel troupe will appear in Central Hall on Tuesday evening, April 3. With respect to a recent visit of this troupe to this town and the gossip current in connection therewith, the manager of the troupe writes to say that he was present at the truck-house on the night in question, and emphatically denies that there was any indecorous conduct on the part of the members of the troupe. He says: "Members of my company are at all times to conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen under penalty of instant dismissal." The manager vouches for it that the show on Tuesday night will be refined and pleasing.

Mrs. M. F. Patterson's Millinery Opening.
Mrs. M. F. Patterson's millinery opening will be held at her parlor in the Maynard building, Montclair, Wednesday and Thursday, April 4th and 5th. No cards. All the ladies of Bloomfield and Glen Ridge are invited. Advt.

DR. BALLANTINE WILL LEAVE.

THE CONGREGATION CONSENTS TO A DISSOLUTION OF THE PASTORAL RELATIONS.

Commissioners Appointed to Go Before the Presbytery—That Body Will Meet in Newark April 4th—Termination of a Long and Successful Pastorate.

At a meeting of the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church on Tuesday night the following minute was adopted:

Our pastor, Dr. H. W. Ballantine, having asked this congregation to unite with him in an application to the Presbytery for leave to resign his office in order to accept a call from the First Congregational Church in Baltimore, we desire to express to him our great reluctance to accede to his request, and our deep regret that he has thought it advisable to close his successful pastorate of nearly twenty years. We cheerfully recognize the earnestness and ability of his pulpit services, his faithfulness as a pastor, and his high christian character. These have gained for him the esteem of the whole community.

In the union work of the churches he has borne a leading part. As a citizen he has efficiently promoted the welfare of the town. In all things he has adorned the doctrine of God our Savior. Believing that it would be unwise to oppose his settled wish to terminate his pastorate and affectionately commending him to his new charge.

Resolved: That three Commissioners be appointed who shall express to the Presbytery the acquiescence of this congregation in his request.

The commissioners appointed, in accordance with the above were H. H. Biddulph, N. H. Dodd, and Peter Carter. They will represent the church at the meeting of the Presbytery in the First Presbyterian Church, Newark, on Wednesday, April 4.

Dr. Ballantine will preach no formal farewell sermon. Tomorrow morning will be communion service in the church, and his final sermon will be preached at the union meeting under the auspices of the Evangelical Union in the First Church on Sunday evening.

Dr. Ballantine lacks two months of closing a twenty years' pastorate at the First Church. This is the longest period that any minister has continued in charge there. A generation of the church membership has practically grown up under his care. Infants who he baptized in the early years of his ministry have grown up and in later years been received into full membership in the church. Many who were boys and girls when he came to town have had the pleasure of uniting in wedlock, and it has been his solemn duty to accompany to the grave an unusual number of the older members of the church. So frequent were the deaths at one time among the old pillars of the church, that Dr. Ballantine was led to exclaim in his discourse at the funeral of the late Dr. Joseph A. Davis, "that it appeared as if God had sent him to Bloomfield to bury the Old Church."

It is with feelings of deepest regret on the part of the very large majority of the membership of the church that the pastoral relations which have become loving ties with many are about to be dissolved. Many members of the church can hardly broach the subject without being moved to tears. Dr. Ballantine's departure, owing to circumstances attending it, is one of the most sorrowful episodes in the church history of this town.

The First Church has enjoyed both spiritual and physical prosperity under the pastorate of Dr. Ballantine. The accessions to the membership have been large. The church has co-operated heartily in religious movements of a general character. The interior of the Church has been very much improved and the edifice has been enlarged by the erection of an imposing and beautiful Sunday-school room, and on every hand there are indications of improvement and growth. Many earnest prayers will follow Dr. Ballantine to his new field desiring for him a happy and prosperous career. These desires are not confined to the church alone it is the almost unanimous desire of the people of this town who have known him so long and learned to love him and feel that Baltimore gains in Bloomfield's loss.

Good Fighters.
However much some people may disagree with the municipalists in theory, everybody must admire their fighting qualities. Edward S. Wilde, who is unquestionably the leader of the party, conducts a skillful fight, and is ably assisted by Mr. Hopping.

TOWN COMMITTEE'S ROUND.

A LIVELY BATTLE RESULTS IN A DRAW.

The Municipalists Apparently Gain a Point—A One-Year Contract Authorized with the Orange Water Company.

The question of a water supply for this town was the subject of another lively battle on Tuesday night, and the result was apparently a draw. The township seems to be in about the same position to-day that it was in three months ago, when the contract with the Orange Water Company expired. Central Hall was crowded with citizens, some of whom came to talk, others to listen and vote, and others for entertainment. There was an abundance of talking, considerable voting, and those who were there for entertainment pronounced it as good as a circus. A number of those who came to the meeting for the purpose of voting got very weary of the talking, and left before a vote was taken.

George W. Cook, presided at the meeting, and W. L. Johnson assisted as secretary. Committeeman G. Lee Stout, of the Township Committee's sub-committee on water reviewed the agitation of the water-supply question that has been going on for over a year, and of the part taken in that agitation by the Committee of Thirty, and also the action of the public meeting in December, 1893. That meeting adopted a resolution directing the Town Committee to investigate the matter of water supply and report at a subsequent meeting. Mr. Stout said that after investigation the water committee, Mr. Oakes and himself, had reported to the Township Committee at a special meeting last Saturday that in their opinion the wisest course for the township to pursue was to renew the ten year contract with the Orange Water Company. Six out of seven members of the committee voted to recommend this course to the citizens. Mr. Gilbert dissented. Mr. Stout said that the object of the public meeting was that the committee's recommendation might be presented and acted upon. He read letters from the Montclair Water Company and the Orange Water Company. The Montclair Water Company offered to sell water to the township at the rate of $60 per 1,000 gallons, the township to pay the expense of the meters to be placed at the two points of outlet, one from the Montclair Water Company's main for the Glen Ridge district the other in the East Jersey Water Company's main for the balance of the town. The Orange Water Company offered to supply the town under the same terms that it supplies East Orange reducing the cost of hydrant maintenance from $60 to $30 per year, and to make a new water district of Glen Ridge, and obtain a supply elsewhere than from their well, and insure as satisfactory pressure and quality of water as other parts of the town enjoyed.

E. A. Smith called for a reading of the terms of the contract between the Orange Water Company and the township of East Orange.

Mr. Stout complied with the request, and Mr. Smith moved the adoption of the recommendation of the Township Committee.

Edwin A. Rayner offered a substitute that no contract be entered into unless the terms of it are submitted to and adopted by the people.

Edward S. Wilde contended that the Water Committee had not observed the instruction of the December meeting in that they had not reported the price at which the Orange Water Company would sell its plant in this town to the township.

Mr. Stout replied that the Committee of Thirty had struggled with that problem and arrived at an estimate that he was not disposed to dispute; he informed Mr. Wilde that when the township wanted to buy the Orange Water Company's plant it could get a price.

George W. Hopping wanted to know why certain information given by Mr. Stout was not supplied to the Committee of Thirty.

Mr. Stout replied that Mr. Hopping stood in the unfortunate position of being unable to think that anybody can be in earnest but himself, nor possibly honest but himself.

Seymour F. Gilbert offered a series of resolutions, embodying the purchase of the Orange Water Company's plant by the township, and the purchase of water from the Montclair Water Company, and that authority be obtained to defray the cost of the plant from the arrangements of taxes now due the township.

Joseph D. Gallagher subjected Mr. Gilbert's proposition to critical analysis and characterized it as analogous with the attempt of a man to live on the interest of his debts.

Mr. Gallagher, Dr. Richards, Thomas Oakes, and Amos Dodd expressed themselves in favor of the renewal of the ten-year contract. Messrs. Wilde, Hopping, Rayner, and Gilbert led the opposition. A vote was taken on Mr. Gilbert's resolution, and it was defeated by a vote of 118 to 66. Mr. Rayner's amendment of the Township Committee's recommendation, substituting the words one year instead of ten years as the length of time for a contract, was carried by a vote of 125 to 93.

Talk to Firemen.

The Rev. Dr. H. W. Ballantine preached a sermon to the members of Essex Hook and Ladder Company No. 1 last Sunday night, the substance of which will linger long in the memory of those present. It frequently happens that organizations such as Grand Army men, firemen, and benevolent and fraternal lodges are invited to church, and a sermon is preached which has a very remote application to the direct objects of the societies, and is generally of an adulatory character. Dr. Ballantine's discourse was not of the commonplace order. It was not an aggregation of steel platitudes pleasing to the conceit of a fireman, and calculated to inflate that worthy with an undue sense of his own importance. It was an intensely practical talk calculated to strike home and bit hard. The text was part of the fourteenth verse of the second chapter of the First Epistle of John: "I have written unto you young men because ye are strong."

Dr. Ballantine paid a fitting tribute to the service of firemen in general, and of the good work done in the past by the members of Essex Hook and Ladder Company. He spoke of his own personal acquaintance with that company, and the pleasant relations that had existed between them. In his attendance at their gatherings the most exemplary conduct had prevailed. Strength, he said, was the endowment of young men, and for that endowment they were under obligations to society. The duty of a fireman did not exhaust the strength of the young men. There were other fields in which it could be profitably used in conjunction with the office of fireman. It was the duty of the firemen to assist in subduing rowdiness in the town. He did not wish to be understood that rowdiness prevailed to any alarming extent in the town, but it did prevail more or less, as in all other towns. The firemen should be the auxiliaries of the church and the police in putting it down; as young men they had it in their power to create a sentiment against rowdiness that would keep it in check. They disdained rowdiness in any form, and refused to tolerate any exhibition of it in their own circle, they would be making a right use of their endowment.

Dr. Ballantine said that a second field for the proper exercise of the strength of young men was in the purification of politics. He particularly urged them to take a firm stand against all corrupt practices in politics. A third and important field for the moral exercise of a young man's strength, and one where it would be of the greatest benefit to society, was in the fight against the saloon. The preacher's remarks were very keen on this subject. A very large congregation heard the sermon.

Honorary and active members of Essex numbered about sixty. Easter anthems were sung by the choir, and beautiful floral decorations surrounded the pulpit.

THE MUNICIPALISTS' ROUND.

A VERY TAME MEETING ON MONDAY NIGHT.

The Anti-Municipalists were D. Q. - No Heads Popped Up to be Clubbed—Mr. E. S. Wilde's Brilliant Electioneering Feat.

It requires an electioneering of an exceptional merit to hold a large audience for the long stretch of one hour and twenty minutes without intermission. Mr. Edward S. Wilde performed that brilliant electioneering feat in Central Hall on Monday night, and the prodigiousness of the feat will be the more admired when attention is called to the fact that the only material he had at hand was the report signed by twelve members of the Committee of Thirty. Mr. Wilde read this report from pages one to thirty inclusive, and kept up an interest from beginning to end. Several of his well-rounded periods embodying a keen thrust at "private corporations," were applauded. There was a large attendance at the meeting. J. Banks Reford presided and William Biggart was secretary. At the conclusion of the reading of the report the meeting was open for discussion. The anti-municipalists were not open to challenge and declined discussion. One of them said afterward, metaphorically speaking that he discerned the club in the hands of Messrs. Wilde and Hopping and he did not propose to expose his head to a clubbing. Other anti-municipalists probably deemed it wise to exercise similar discretion.

Herbert Farrand who had the temerity to venture a criticism of some items in the report, was answered by Messrs. Wilde, Reford, and Hopping.

A resolution offered by Mr. Wilde was adopted. It was to the effect that the Town Committee be enjoined from making a contract for water and light for a period of over one year and also favored municipal ownership. The resolution was ordered presented at the meeting on Tuesday night, and at the annual town meeting on April 2.

Farwell to their Pastor.

A social was held in the church parlors of the Park M. E. Church on Monday night, under the auspices of the Epworth League, which was in the nature of a farewell to the pastor of the church, Rev. R. L. Collins, whose five years' term expires this conference year. A fine programme was arranged and well carried out, and much enjoyed by the large attendance. Clarence E. Van Winkle, President of the League, made an opening address in which he reviewed the pleasant relations that had existed between the young people and the pastor during the latter's ministry. Mr. Van Winkle's address was followed by a piano solo by Miss Florence Rusby. Mr. Fred Mohrman, the well-known electioneering, was next introduced, and "brought down the house" with a reading entitled "Selecting a Minister." Mr. Mohrman's inimitable delineations of the character sketches in the piece occasioned boisterous laughter, and he had to respond to a deafening and prolonged encore. Miss J. Estelle Lockwood sang a solo. Repeated calls for Mohrman arose from all parts of the room, and the great humorist was again brought forward, and again delighted the audience. Miss Grace Martin and Mr. Arthur B. Davis sang a duet. President Van Winkle called on the Rev. C. C. Winans of the Watsessing M. E. Church for remarks. The Rev. Mr. Winans and the Rev. Mr. Collins started in the ministry together about thirty years ago, and the speaker was able to entertain the audience with some interesting reminiscences.

The Rev. C. A. Cook of the First Baptist Church, in response to a call, told of the pleasant relations that had existed between Mr. Collins and his fellow clergymen in the town.

The Rev. Mr. Collins made a very affecting reply to the kind words of Messrs. Winans and Cook and was deeply moved by the spirit of the occasion. At the conclusion of the programme of exercises refreshments were served.

For a New Chapel.

Dr. Harry E. Richards will lecture in the chapel of the Westminster Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evening, April 11th. The subject will be "A Tour through Italy." An admission fee will be charged and the proceeds will go towards the building fund of the Westminster Mission Chapel to be erected on Mill Street, Soho, near the school-house. The work of erecting the chapel will soon be commenced. On Saturday evening, April 14th, a meeting will be held for the election of trustees for the new society.

Sunday-school Teachers' Gathering.

The teachers of the First Baptist Church met at Frank B. Stone's residence on Spruce Street last evening to discuss Sunday-school matters. The business session was followed by an hour of social enjoyment, during which refreshments were served.
